

Library

The library at TSWRDC (W), Budvel is not just a place to find books; it's a gateway to knowledge and learning. With a substantial collection of over 6000 documents, including textbooks, reference materials, and general study books, the library is a valuable resource for students.

The library also subscribes to 13 different magazine titles, catering to a wide range of interests and providing insights for competitive exams. Additionally, there are daily subscriptions to 5 different newspapers with a total of 9 copies, encouraging students to develop reading habits and stay updated with current affairs.

Various services are provided to enhance the library experience for students, including circulation services, reference materials for in-library use, and access to previous years' question papers. The library's extensive collection is meticulously organized, and each book is assigned a unique accession number, making it easy for students and faculty to find the materials they need.

To ensure accessibility, the library offers extended hours that align with class schedules, and it remains open on Sundays for students to utilize its resources. During the COVID-19 period, the library adapted by circulating e-books, e-newspapers, and question papers through WhatsApp groups, adapting to the changing learning environment.

The library's commitment to providing a wide range of resources and services underscores its role as a hub of learning and knowledge dissemination within the college.
